It is stated that the Cuben steamer Lillian was released at Nassau on the 19th of last month, but was not silowed te take coal. Capt. Harris put to sea hurning the wood-work of the cabins for fuel. He met two schooners laden with coal, and while taking it aboard the British gunboat Lapwing came up and fired some 20 shors at her, and then took the Lillian into Nassau again. She was seized by British authorities and pillinged. The men who were on a key were taken off by the schooners, but were captured by the Lapwing and taken to Nassau and released. They have made their way to points on our coast where they are being cared for by the Cuban Junia. The Lillian is still at Nassau.

The Smith Murder Trial at Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 10. CHICAGO, Nov. 10.

The evidence yesterday in the Rev.
T. B. Smith murder trial, developed some new facts brought out by Dr.
Burlingame's testimony, which are considered damsging to Smith. More important was the fact that the neck of Mrs. Smith had a livid appearance, as if some violence had been inflicted. But this was rebuted to a certain extent by the testimony of several other physicians, who testified that the livid appearance was the natural result of death by strangulation, and also persons who die a natural death. The evidence will probably close to-day, and the trial by Friday.

rom the Financial Column of the Philadelphi

From the Financial Column of the Philadelphia Ledger.

The question of a reduction of the rate of interest on the public debt very naturally accompanies the fact of the reduction of the principal of that debt. Attention has been more seriously attracted to the subject by intimations in the newspaper correspondence from Washington within a few days, that the President's forthcoming message to Congress, and the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury will give to the country something very explicit as to what may be done in this regard. The Secretary, in his speech before the to what may be done in this regard. The Secretary, in his speech before the election, in this city, intimated that our present debt could be placed at par at 4 per cent. The avowal of similar sentiments have, in aubstance, been ascribed to the President. Several prominent members of Congress talk somewhat authoritatively in the same way; and in this connection we have a second or third letter on the subject from Mr. Charles Howless, addressed to the Servetory of the Treassubject from Mr. Charles Bowles, addressed to the Secretory of the Treasury. Mr. Bowles is a Paris banker, now in this country, and has taken up the question of a restoration of our national credit con amore, and argues the point in the zeal of a new love. But Mr. Bowles leaves out of the discussion the main point involved in it, as have thus far the President, his Secretary, and all their coadjutors. It needs no ghost to come from the grave to tell us that the Government of the United States ought to be able to borrow all the money it may require at 4 per cent; that the vast resources of this coantry should give the Govern per cent.; that the vast resources of this country should give the Govern-ment credit to borrow in any part of the world money on untaxed gold-bear-ing bonds at that rate, and that if this ing bonds at that lead, that the Govern-ment ought to call in its 6 per cent, bonds, replacing them with bonds at ment ought to call in its 0 per cent. bonds, replacing them with bonds at lower rates. The a consummation devoutly desired by all. Its economy and advantage are facts conceided by every taxpayer, and all acquiesce in the force of the argument that the thing accomplished, would furnish gratifying evidence of improved national credit. But Mr. Bowles, in zealously, and were alconaries. oredit. But Mr. Bowles, in zealously, and even eloquently, presenting our wealth of resources and our growing greatuess as a nation, leaves out entre-ly all allusion to only plan as to how capitalists at home or abroad are to be indicad to lond or manager to be referred. capitalists at home or abroad are to be induced to lend us money at 4 per cent, seeing as they do, our 6 per cent, gold-bearing bonds selling in Europe at about $4-10 per cent, below par. If he, or any of those who insist that our credit is good enough to borrow at 4 per cent, per annum, will show us how perable difficulty. Of course this re-duction of the rate of interest is to comduction of the rate of interest is to come legally and equitably. It is not to be supposed that this desirable end is to be accomplished arbitrarily and in violation of law and good faith, for though Mr. Bowles assumes that the United States Government has the power to dictate terms to its creditors, and to fix the rates of interest that it is, to pay, it is not to be presumed that anything of that character is to be attempted, for, besides the dishonor, which could not be washed out, so thing could more certainly bring discredit and inability to borrow on any terms. Indeed, nothing could bring discredit and inability to borrow on any terms. Indeed, nothing could more certainly cut us off from the sympathy and respect of all honest menthan repudiation in any form of contracts involving the payment of money. What the Secretary of the Treasury, to whom Mr. Bowles specially addresses himself, and the whole public would like to learn is, how the holders of the taxed 6 per cent. gold-bearing bonds can be induced to exchange them for non-taxable 4 her cent. gold-bearing

ALLEGHENY, Nov. 10.

CATTLE—The supply of cattle on sale Monday was fully up to the demands of the trade, reaching 1,350 head against 1,350 last week. The market ruled dull buyers generally asking concessions before taking hold. The rates, warled but little from the previous week; taken as a whole they were a shade lower. The largest offerings consisted of the medium and lower grades and were more difficult of sale, as the principal inquiry was for the better descriptions. As we have before remarked it would be far more advantageous to drovers if they would procure a better quality, as common stock will always be a drug in this market. The current rates for the best fat cattle were $7.00, 7.25.7 50 per cwt., the latter figure could only be obtained for a fancy article.
